“ Jim had 3 children, Doug, Dave and Dana. Growing up there was never a dull moment. He taught us all how to have an appreciation of the outdoors, among many other things. We did everything from camping, fishing and backpacking to snow skiing and boating. He loved playing tennis and made sure we could all keep up with him running us all over the court. Doug was a natural and they kept playing into the latter years.

When it came to fishing, another love of our dad's, he taught us to enjoy the solitude of sitting in the quiet, sometimes for hours waiting for the Big One! He would always remind us that if you catch it, you clean it, you eat it. That's the reason we all quickly learned to catch and release. 😊

He loved being on the water as much as in nature and spent years sailing on his boat after retirement. It was a passion for him and he told many amazing stories of his ventures.

He is and always will be a kind, loving man and great father. He taught us to be strong and live life. In our hearts we will hold many, many other amazing memories.

He will forever be in our hearts 💕💕

We love you Dad
